Revolver Is Hoogoo To Men Now In Jail

Mark Twain's "Double-barreled Detec tive Story" had a sequal in the housebreaking and assault charges on which Howard Allen and Frank Hawkins, both colored, were held for the grand jury, in the United States branch of Police Court Detective Kleindienst, of the Fourth precinct, and his witness told a story today of how Allen stole a revolver with which Tawkins is charged with assaulting Phillip Richardson. Allen is charged with breaking into the grocery store of Joseph H. Goodrich at 724 F street southwest and stealing the revolver and $100 in money. After the revolver and $100 in money. After the robbery, so the police claim, Allen went to call on his sweetheart and a row started. The gun made its appear-ance in Allen's hands, it is said, but discretion appealed to him as the better part of valor and he ran, dropping the

This row was on August 27, and the next day the revolver, in the hands of Hawkins, it is said, was used in an assault that drove Phillip Richardson and two companions to cover. The second row in which the alleged stolen revolver figured occurred in Clarks court south paign for the collection of personal taxes. Arrangements have been made for the rental of six large vans, each to be given in charge of a bailiff with instruction to accept no excuses and enter into no arguments, but load into the wagon the personal belongings of the man who refuses to pay his personal taxes. Names will be made public after the seizure.

According to Collector Rogers there are more delinquents now than ever beore in the history of his office. There are 5,000 accounts, and the amount of personal taxes due is $60,000.

"Every delinquent will be treated in the same way," said the Collector today. The list includes many men of prominence. I have often ben accused of bluffing in regard to attaching property, but I am not. Those in arrears may avoid embarrassment by sending checks to the office of the Collector of Taxes between now and Tuesday.

And Grounds In Good Condition.

ROCKVILLE, Md., Sept. 1.-Beca of ideal weather conditions and the fact that the crowd was much greater than had been anticipated the directors of the Rockville Fair have decided to continue the exhibition tomor-

The first three days of the fair were an absolute failure because of rain. The directors had become thoroughly discouraged. But the large crowd today indicated that there was prospect that one day more of the fair might bring in sufficient gate receipts to meet the various prizes and wards.

The feature of the fair today was the horse show. The judging commenced at 12:30 o'clock, and after all of the forty-eight classes had been inspected the racing program, as scheduled for today, was commenced. John O. Gheen, of Washington, acted as judge of the Awards were made in the first few lasses as follows:
